INTRODUCTION

Planning and hosting a party can be fun, but small details can ensure your party is SAFE AND FUN.

Setting boundaries and having strategies in place to make yourself and guests comfortable is essential for everyone to have a good time.

Remember, this is YOUR PARTY and you make the rules!

Ask Yourself These Questions:

/ Are you comfortable with the presence of alcohol or other substances?

/ Are you allowing guests to bring a few friends, everyone they know, or is this party by invitation only?

/ Will there be guests under the legal drinking age?

/ Are you comfortable with your guests staying over for the night if they are unable to drive themselves home?

REMINDER, you could be held responsible under Common Negligence Laws if someone is harmed or injured at your party. That means you're expected to take REASONABLE STEPS to ensure no guests are drinking underage or becoming overly intoxicated.

TIPS TO KEEP YOUR PARTY SAFER

TRANSPORTATION

Ask your guests about their transportation plans BEFORE THE EVENT.

If someone doesn't have a designated driver, a friend to call, or a rideshare planned, let them know it's important for them to have a plan to BE SAFE.

HELP FRIENDS make arrangements for transportation if you're able.

For smaller gatherings of people you know, consider collecting car keys in a large bowl or shoebox that you can store away. This way, each person will need to alert you that they plan to leave and you can INTERVENE if they are too intoxicated to drive.

TIPS TO KEEP YOUR PARTY SAFER

FOOD & DRINK

If you choose to allow alcohol at your party, consider HAVING SNACKS available too.

Food slows down the absorption of alcohol. If guests are drinking, food can HELP PREVENT rapid intoxication.

Show off your cooking skills. If cooking isn't your thing, ORDER SOME PIZZAS or have everyone chip in on delivery. Set out snack foods like chips, crackers, pretzels, or popcorn.

If you choose to provide alcohol, the best line of defense against mishaps can be serving beverages with lower alcohol content. Skip shots and jungle juice and go for drinks with 5% ABV or less. Be clear about YOUR BOUNDARIES regarding outside alcohol and substances at your party.

HOW TO STAY INCLUSIVE

Even if your gathering will have alcohol, you can still SET AN EXAMPLE by making the choice not to drink.

Have non-alcoholic drinks READILY AVAILABLE. You can even provide guests with ingredients to make their own unique and tasty beverage.

PLAN ACTIVITIES for your gathering! Some people who choose not to drink might not attend parties because alcohol is the main event.

Consider hosting a costume party, an unplugged board game night, a video game tournament, or a karaoke party. GET CREATIVE!

HOW TO STAY INCLUSIVE

Not every party includes alcohol! Hosting alcohol- and substance-free events communicates to your friends that MODERATION AND SOBER LIFESTYLES are normal and respected.

Shut down STIGMA AND PEER PRESSURE! No one is required to drink or consume any substances, and no one should be coerced into doing so.

Be wary of comments like “Just one drink won’t hurt” or “Don’t be so boring”.

Be assertive in shutting down this coercion if you see it, and DON’T BE AFRAID to ask someone to leave if they don’t stop the behavior.

SUPPORTING GUESTS IN RECOVERY OR MODERATING SUBSTANCE USE

Understand that people in RECOVERY might have specific needs or triggers you aren't aware of, and they might be uncomfortable talking about them.

Avoid prying questions and respect everyone's choice whether they disclose THEIR REASONS for not using substances. Do not make assumptions about why someone is or is not engaging in substance use.

People might have difficult or complex feelings about their own use of alcohol or other substances. What ONE PERSON might view as casual or "no big deal" could be problematic or even dangerous for another.

Family or personal history can affect how a person feels about substance use. Past experiences involving parents, guardians, loved ones, or friends, including addiction and death, can have a BIG EFFECT on a person's feelings and attitudes about substances.

KNOWING WHEN SOMEONE MAY NEED HELP

If you're hosting a party, you have a RESPONSIBILITY to take measures in keeping the setting safe!

Do you have PHONE NUMBERS for local police departments and emergency services?

Is there naloxone available IN CASE of an opioid overdose? Naloxone has the ability to rapidly reverse opioid overdose in the case of an emergency.

Do you KNOW THE SIGNS of alcohol poisoning?

/ Confusion / Seizures / Blue, gray, or pale skin
/ Low body temperature / 8 breaths or fewer per minute
/ Unconscious or semi-conscious

DON'T BE AFRAID to call for help, even if unlawful activity has occurred. The WV Good Samaritan Law and the WVU Medical Amnesty Policy protect you AND the person you're helping from punitive actions. You must BE COOPERATIVE with first responders and provide accurate information to the best of your ability.

CONCLUSION

There are many ways you can be a safer and more supportive party host. By keeping the following KEY POINTS in mind, you can help create a fun, inclusive environment for everyone!

1. COMMUNICATE your expectations and boundaries for your party to your guests.
2. Consider the boundaries your guests may have with alcohol and RESPECT THEIR CHOICES.
3. Know that alcohol DOES NOT have to be present to have a party.
4. Provide non-alcoholic drinks and snacks for EVERYONE.
5. BE AWARE of local resources and safety measures.
